

Tiraspol house

Tiraspol house

The project features a single-story family home designed for a couple with three children, offering a modern configuration that combines aesthetic elegance with functionality. The design focuses on the harmonious integration of indoor and outdoor areas, using a summer kitchen connected to a SPA zone and greenhouse, all unified under a generous canopy. Beneath this canopy, a green atrium creates a natural atmosphere and enhances light flow through subtle natural illumination.

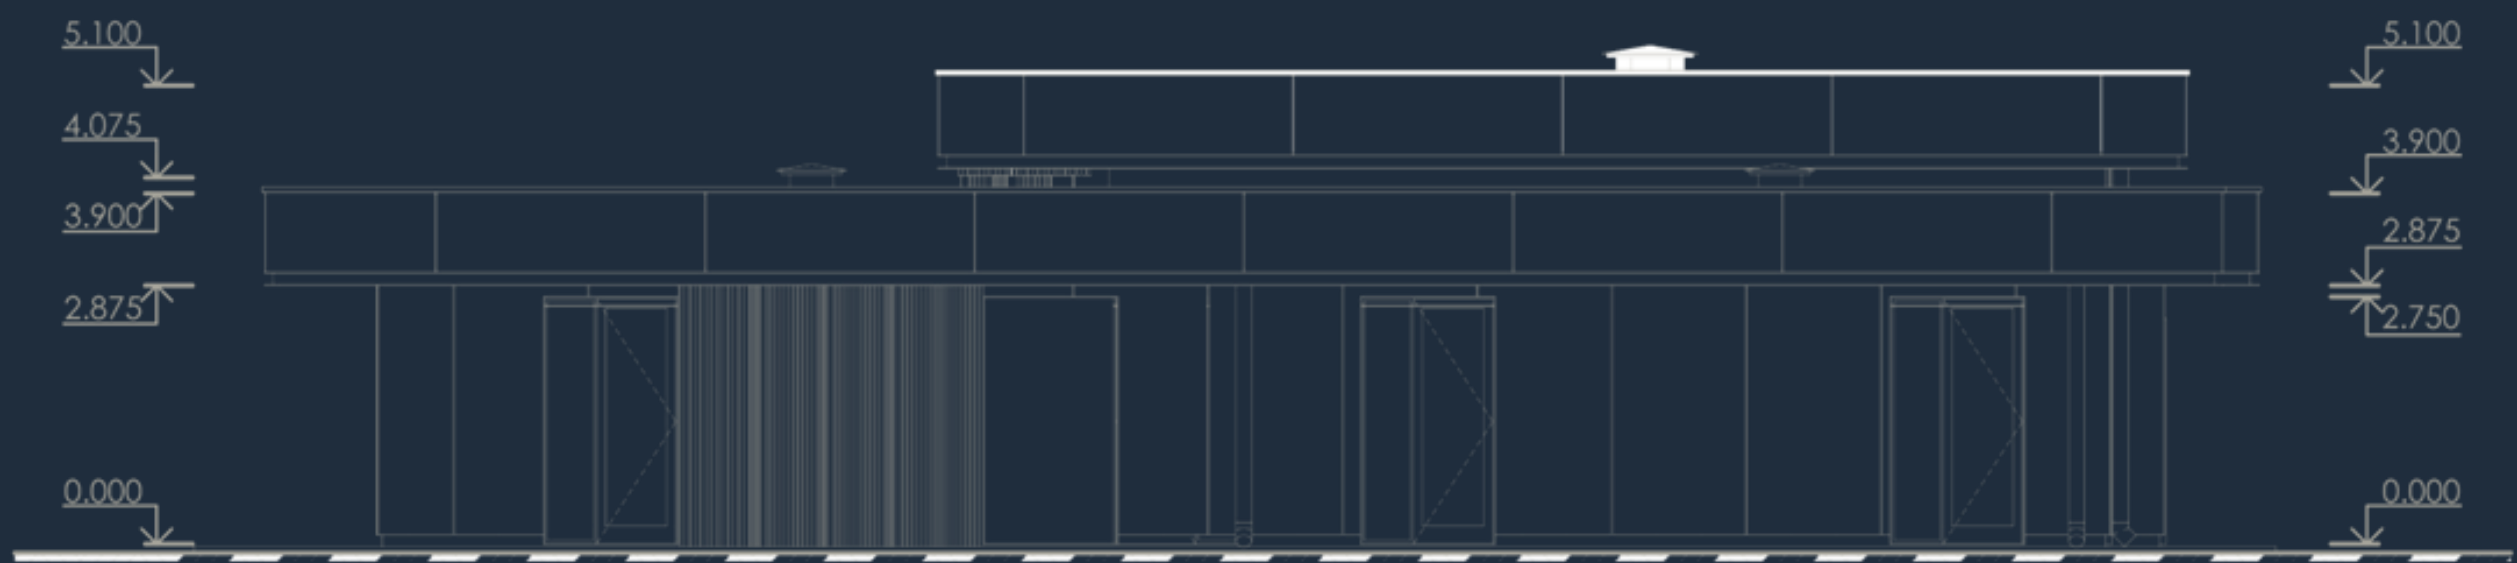

The Layout- Ground Floor

A spacious living room and open kitchen, designed for socializing and comfort. Large glazed surfaces ensure seamless connections to the exterior.

Three comfortable bedrooms, each offering privacy and easy access to the exterior. Modern, well-equipped bathrooms tailored to the family's needs.

A summer kitchen and SPA area designed for relaxation and socializing. An extended terrace, complemented by a pergola and a green atrium, offers a natural and elegant setting. Outdoor relaxation areas include a pool, landscaped garden, and functional storage zones.

Elevations

Challenge

The exterior design reflects a modern style with ventilated facades and a combination of wood, ceramics, and metal, highlighting a balance between elegance and durability. Large glazed surfaces maximize natural light, creating a visual continuity between the interior and exterior. The generous canopy and green atrium add an organic and functional touch, perfectly integrating outdoor spaces into the overall design.

Concept

The architectural concept of the house focuses on sustainability and comfort. The project maximizes the use of natural light and provides energy-efficient solutions. The design emphasizes the harmonious integration of indoor and outdoor areas, encouraging a relaxed lifestyle connected to nature.

The summer kitchen and SPA area enhance the home's functionality, while the use of natural materials adds refinement and long-term resilience.

Implementation

The project was implemented with attention to detail and the use of high-quality materials. Ventilated facades ensure durability and thermal comfort, while the generous canopy provides shade and protection for outdoor areas.

Outdoor spaces, including the pool and pergola, are harmoniously integrated into the landscape, offering a perfect setting for relaxation and social activities. Modern architectural solutions and attention to detail make this house an example of contemporary design tailored to modern needs.
